Forecast For Southwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Thursday 17 Jun 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Risk of thunder in the east later on Friday.

This Evening and Tonight:
A fine evening with late sunshine in western areas but often cloudy in the east. Staying mostly dry overnight, with cloud gradually thinning through the small hours, allowing for some clear spells. Minimum temperature 9 deg C (48 deg F).

Friday:
Starting fine and dry for many, but cloud and showers, some heavy and potentially thundery, move across eastern parts later. Staying largely dry with sunny spells in the west. Breezy. Maximum temperature 20 deg C (68 deg F).

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Mostly dry on Saturday, but cloudier later with widespread showers moving in overnight. Showers continuing into Sunday with potential thunder. Further showers on Monday, heavy at times and possibly thundery.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.